Consultant Membership Dues Calculation Worksheet

Consultant membership is open to any individual or company that primarily provides consulting services to, or in relation to, the industry.

Consultant membership dues are calculated based on:

Who? Your company where consulting services to the industry generates greater than 50% of its revenue.

NOTE: A company providing services for physical installation, maintenance, repair, testing, or physical transportation of goods/equipment is classified as an Active member.

An operating division of a firm or corporation may be considered as a separate firm or corporation for purposes of membership in this Association.

What? Related Annual Revenue in U.S. Dollars includes both 1) the annual dollar volume for the most recent completed calendar year from fees for consulting services to, or in relation to, the industry, including education and training, compliance, engineering, and research and development; and 2) related annual revenues of the consultant's industry clients that are not CGA members. For the purpose of this policy, the consultant's calendar year shall be used to determine the clients' CGA membership status.

EXAMPLE: Assuming a client is not a CGA member for year 2021, and the consultant works for the client in year 2021, then the consultant's 2022 dues is based on the consultant's 2021 revenues plus the client's revenue from 2020 (the dues the client would have paid if they had been a member in the year of the consultant work).

Consulting arrangements covering a period greater than 60 days must include the industry-related revenue of the non-CGA member client company, its parent corporation, and any other industry-related subsidiaries of the parent corporation on a pro-rated basis according to the following schedule:

Duration of Consulting Agreement (days)*	Percentage of non CGA member Client Revenues to Include in Determining Related Annual Revenue
0 - 59	0%
60 - 89	25%
90 - 179	50%
180 - 269	75%
270 - 366	100%

*Duration is the difference of the start date to the finish date not the number of days contracted. If multiple consulting contracts are made with the same company (or related companies) the duration will be considered from the start date of the first contract to the end date of the last contract covering any calendar year. If no contract, written or verbal, exists between the consultant and the client, hence no term of engagement and no obligation of future work engagements exist between the parties, then the total days of such ad hoc work by the consultant shall be considered the duration for the above chart.

Gases are defined as industrial, food, and medical gases in liquefied, non-liquefied, dissolved, or cryogenic states.

Where? From or into the United States, Canada, and Mexico

When? January 1, 2024 - December 31, 2024

1. Enter the annual revenue as defined above:	$
2. Multiply line 2 by 0.000135054 to determine your current annual dues and enter the amount* (rounded up to the nearest dollar):	$
